AN INSPECTION BY PRODUCERS.

TAMINATIONS TO BE MADE OF THE WELLS OF THE UNITED PIPE LINES—THE WORK LAID OUT.

For the first time since speculation in petroleum began, the producing interests, through the various oil exchanges of the country, will be represented when the annual inspection of the Crude oil in the castody of the United Pipe Lines, with the exception of the Tidewater Pipe Line, is the sole custodian of the stock of crude oil in the Pennsylvanin and New-York oil regions. Of late efforts have been made to impeach the integrity of the official reports issued by the United Pipe Lines. It has been charged, on the one hand, that the actual stock of oil held by the company was larger than the amount. It has been charged that the company was larger than the amount. It has been charged that the company are reports of this account could not be relied upon, and that no guarantee was afforded the trade that there might not be an issue of certificates in excess of the amount of oil actually held. It is these certificates which are dealt in at the oil exchanges in a similar way to the transactions in railroad stocks.

These suspicions at times, since the great activity in oil speculation began about a year ago, have interfered largely with dealings. The Pipe Lines now have solicited the trade to verify their figures. It is proposed by the oil exchanges to make their examination as thorough as possible. The tanks of the company are divided into ninety-one districts and in each of them a gauger measures the amount of oil that each tank in his district contains every day. When the gauge is taken on September 1 a competent person under the supervision of a well-owner prominent in each of these districts will be stopped and the double gauges taken simultaneously in the ninety-one districts. It is thought that the work can be done in from six to ten hours. The scrutny of the oil exchanges will not stop here. The Pipe Line Company has sixteen inspectors whose duty is constantly to ascertain the amount of waste matter—w

LORD COLERIDGE ATTENDS SERVICE. GREAT CROWD IN TRINITY CHURCH - COURTESEY

OF THE UNION CLUB.

Old Trinity seemed to have stepped backward at its service yesterday morning into the times when its pew swere occupied by the worshipping multitude instead of the chosen few. Even the aisles were filled with people and when the first organ peal rang through the church it was only with difficulty that one could find entrance. It was known that Lord Chief-Justice Coleridge intended to listen to the morning sermon. Two pews on the south side of the middle aisle had been reserved for him and his companions, and some time before the service began, Lord Coleridge, his son, Sir James Hannen, Mr. Hudson and Mr. and Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard entered the pews and seated themselves. As the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix was absent from the city, the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix was absent from the city, the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix was absent from the city, the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix was absent from the city, the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix was absent from the city, the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix was absent from the city, the middle paid marked attention to the minister's remarks and followed the service with apparent devotion to its close. When the benediction had been pronounced a large crowd gathered in the middle aisle and waited until his Lordship passed. Without the church a number of persons had surrounded the carriages. Mr. and Mrs. Shepard entered an open landau. Lord Coleridge shook hands with Judge Rapalle, stepped into a ceach and followed Mr. Snepard's landau.

As the coach was about to leave the church a short stout man dressed in a blue flannel snit climbed to the box and seated himself next the driver.

"Who is that?" asked a Tribune reporter of a driver.

"Who is that?" asked a TRIBUNE reporter of a policeman who was standing rear him.

"Why is he here?"

"To protect his lordship, you know."

"Was he also in the church?"

"He went in with the party and then came out and stood by the door."

"Why should his Lordship be protected?"

"I dunno."

After Lord Coleridge arrived at Mr. Shepard's house he expressed himself as being greatly impressed with the selemnity with which the Episcopal service is read in this country. He visited himbattan Beach in the afternoon. On Saturday ex-Mayor Cooper called on his Lordship and presented him with an invitation from the Union Club to make use of its house while he remained in this country. Major-General Hancock took luncheon with Lord Coleridge shortly before Mr. Cooper's call.

STOLEN GOODS RECOVERED.

STOLEN GOODS RECOVERED.

The detectives of Inspector Byrnes's staff yesterday moraing succeeded in recovering the silk and other valuable goods that were stolen from the store of Wolf Dazian, of No. 26 Union-square, on the night of August 15. The men who committed the burglary are believed to be James Clark, Thomas Keily, William Smith alias "Harmon," "Patsey "Carroll alias "Harrison," and John Talbot alias the "Hatter," who are now in the Tombs, having been arrested on August 22 for another burglary committed on August 20 upon the store of George Tarler & Co., general commission merchants, No. 7 Burling-slip. A pocketbook containing samples of the silk stolen was found on one of the prisoners at the time of his capture. There were only four probable places where the silk could be stored, and since the robbery these places have been watched narrowly. On Saturday one of the detectives went to court, leaving his post in charge of a boy, and in his absence a carriage drove to the door of one of the suspected places and took away a large Saratoga trunk. The trunk was believed to contain the stolen goods, and the house to which it was taken was watched. Yesterday morning the detectives went to the louse, and telling the proprietor their business, opened the trunk, and in it were found the twenty-four pieces of silk and other goods stolen from Dazian's store. The proprietor toid the detectives that a man had of silk and other goods stolen from Dazian's store. The proprietor told the detectives that a man had called the day before and engaged a room, taking the key of it with him. In the afternoon his trunk arrived, but the owner had not yet turned up. The e of the goods stolen were recovered.

A BOOK-KEEPER CHARGED WITH FORGERY. Nathan Gottgetbrue, alias Nicholas Gilbert, a book-keeper in the employ of William Shaw, a dealer in hair at No. 50 East Fourteenth-st., was arrested in Pennsylvania and brought to New-York arrested in Pennsylvania and brought to New-York yesterday on a bench warrant charging him with forgery. The forgery, or forgeries (for there were a number of them), were committed prior and up to September 20, 1882. Among them were drafts bearing Mr. Shaw's signature on S. Stenbauch, of No. 650 East Twelfth-st. for $2,000; on Banmano & Brothers, of No. 22 East Fourteenth-st. for $200; on Ludwig & Co., of No. 30 West Fourteenth-st. for $260; on Simon Lamb, of No. 1,130 Third-ave., for $423, and a number of others. The forgeries were discovered about September 20, when the drafts passed through the banks, and a bench warrant was obcovered about September 20, when the drafts passed through the banks, and a bench warrant was obtained for Gilbert's arrest, but he succeeded in making the ercuit of Philadelphia, Chicago, Battimore, New Orleans, Peekskill, and Easton, Penn, before he was captured. His age is about thirty-five and he has been with his present employer eight years. He says that he was driven to forgery from being constantly hard-pressed for money. He will be taken to court this morning.

NOTES FROM THE TRADES UNIONS.

The Central Labor Union held a meeting yester-day afternoon at Green's Hall, in East Thirteenth-The Central Labor Union held a meeting yesterday aftermoon at Green's Hail, in East Thirteenthst. The principal business done was the perfection of the arrangements for the parade and festival to be held on September 5. It is expected to have at least 20,000 men in line. H. O. Cole was appointed grand marshal and Michael Glimartin, Vincent W. Woytisek and George H. MacVey division marshals. Charles E. Miller was elected festival president. Richard K. OFFICERS MAKE A DESCENT UPON A PIT.

THE LITTLE DOG THAT WHIPPED A BIG ONE—SEVERAL ARRESTS MADE.

Superintendent Hankinson, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, recently received information that there was to be a dog fight between the hours of 9 and 12 on Saturday night in a stable in the rear of Harrington's slaughter-house, at Forty-third-st, and First-ave. In company with Officers Lambert, Carpenter and Smart, of the society, Mr. Hankinson proceeded to the place, arriving there about 9:15 o'clock. Peering through the cracks in the shed, the officers saw from twenty-five to thirty men gathered about a pit which had been improvised by boarding up the ends of two brick partitions to the height of about three feet. Two dogs, one a brindle and white, the other a pure white, rather larger than the brindle, were in the hands of their respective trainers, who with difficulty restrained them from flying at each other. Attempting to enter, the officers found the door securely fastened, but procuring a ladder they effected an entrance through a rear window and, concealing themselves in a large vat used for pickling hides, they quietly awaited developments.

The impatience of the spectators saved them from waiting long. The dogs were placed in the pit and a moment later, upon being released, they flew savagely at each other's throats. From the first the larger dog had the worst of the encounter, and when they were separated some fifteen minutes later he was bleeding from a badly lacerated throat. Mr. Hankinson dispatched Officer Lambert to Captain Mount, of the Fifty-first Street Pracinct Station, for assistance, and four policemen were sent by him to aid the society's men in capturing the dogs fighlers. In the meantime the dogs had been set at work again and, as before, the smaller dog had everything his own of the fight were also secured and inched up in the East Fitty-first Street Pracinct Station, for assistance, and four policemen were sent by him to aid the society's men in capturing the dogs ERAL ARRESTS MADE.

CHARITY VAN GILDER'S DEATH. WHAT AN AUTOPSY REVEALED-A CORRECTION IN THE DEATH CERTIFICATE.

A coroner's jury was impanelled yesterday in the case of Miss Charity Van Gilder, who died on Saturday at No. 841 Monroe-st., Brooklyn, after an operation had been performed upon her by Mrs. Caroline B. Furlough, of No. 624 De Kalb-ave. An autopsy was held to determine legally the cause of death by Drs. Creamer and Newman. They found that death ensued from peritonitis, caused by the use of instruments. Dr. Doty, who had attended Miss Van Gilder, was in Raymond Street Jail, and was not allowed to be at the examination, although he requested the privilege. Coroner Doyle made out a death certificate for the young woman in the name of Van Gilder, and her brother-in-law, Charles Gore, of Holoken, refused to take it, as her name, he said, was Lewis. A new certificate was made out for Charity Lewis. It appears that the name of her mother's first husband was Van Gilder. After his death her mother married Mr. Lewis, who was the father of the young woman. Mr. Gore said that his sister-in-law had lived at his house in Hoboken, and had often remained away at night, but had always explained her absence plausibly, on the ground that she had stayed with friends. The funeral will take place to-day in Hoboken. The inquest will be held to-morrow night, at the Broadway Police Station. THE DEATH CERTIFICATE.

IMPENDING STRIKES OF BUILDERS.

Representatives of the building rades on Saturday evening called on John J. Tucker, and requested him either to compel the bricklayers in his employ to join the union or discharge them. He refused to do either and was informed that a general strike would be ordered on all his buildings. Mr. Tucker do either and was informed that a general strike would be ordered on all his buildings. Mr. Tucker declared his intention to fight the unions to the bitter end. The buildings on which Mr. Tucker is employed and where strikes will be declared to-day are at seventy-second-st, and Madison-ave., Seventy-ninth-st, and Fifth-ave., Fifty-eighth-st, and Madison-ave., Fifty-eighth-st, and Madison-ave., Fifty-eighth-st, and Broadway, Grace Church at Eleventh-st, and Broadway, Grace Church at Eleventh-st, and Broadway, and a building in Wall-st, The number of men who will be thrown out of work by this strike exceeds 1,000. It is the largest strike which has yet been ordered by the building trades and is regarded by them as a fair test of their strength. Delegate John W. Frankin, of the Bricklayers' Union, said yesterday: "We do not wish to have a light with Mr. Tucker if it can be avoided, and are willing to do almost anything in reason to come to an agreement with him. He is one of the largest and best boss masons in the city. I think he was laboring under a misapprehension yesterday when he refused to listen to our request. We do not want him to discharge the men who are now at work for him. We must have them in the union, however, and in case he should persist in his refusal to compel them to join, all the union men will come off his buildings. I think that if we do have to fight him, that we will not order any further strikes until that matter is settled."

A sub-committee of the Executive Committee of the building trades met yesterday afternoon at No.

FINDING A MOTHER AFTER MANY YEARS.

Frederic Gilson, a bookbinder, who is living at No. 31 Middagh-st., Brooklyn, expects in a short time to see his mother after being parted from her for ever thirty years. In 1850, when he was a boy in London, his father took him from home one day and they went down by the wharves. On the way his grandmother met them and gave him two gold sovereigns. His father and he then went on board a vessel and came to this country. His father evaded his inquiries about his mother, and a few years later married again. The young man left home and as a sallor and soldier spent several years in England. While there he wrote to his father for information of his mother and grandmother, and was told that they were dead. He afterward married and returned to Brooklyn to live, where his father had died, leaving three children by his second wife, who has since married again. While working at the same trade as his tather, he met a man in a book-bindery who told him that he had known his mother in England. He then wrote to England and, flinding that his mother still lived, he sent for her to come and live with him. She is now on her way to this country. A USELESS BLOODHOUND

A USELESS BLOODHOUND.

The pork-packing store of Lewis Stutts, at Broadway and Ellery-st., Brooklyn, was entered by burglars at an early hour yesterday morning. The sate was broken open and money and checks to the amount of $1,500 were stolen. While the burglars were in the store the proprietor heard a noise, and going down from his apartments overhead, he found a man in the hallway, near a window. As Mr. Stutts bried to enter the store, the man threatened to strike him over the head with a club, and then rapped on the window. Three men ran out of the store, and being joined by the fourth, all made their escape. As Mr. Stutts fried to follow them one of them fired a pistol at him and he desisted. The men left a full set of burglar's tools in the store. A large bloodhound was in the store and made no noise. The man from whom Mr. Stutts bought the dog corresponded to the description of the burglars, and he was arrested upon suspicion. Mr. Stutts could not identify him and he was released.

BETWEEN-TIMES WORK ON THE ELEVATED. BETWEEN-TIMES WORK ON THE ELEVATED.

The time between stations on the elevated railroads is so brief that one would scarcely think it could be employed profitably. There is a conductor on the Third-ave, line, however, who on a scrap of paper resting on an envelope or other smooth surface has traced at odd time, many heantiful designs for scroll work, such as photograph frames, casels, etc., which he has afterward shaped in wood at his home with a small scroll saw, drill and sandpaper. Another of his methods to kill time between stations is to fashion peach stones into curious and comical shapes, his only tool being a pocket knife to which is attached a small file.

In 1871 James Stanley and his wife Elizabeth lived together in London, England, and they had four children. The husband became acquainted with a young woman who passed under the name of Frances Grout, but whose real name was Mrs. Frances Yeamens, and who had one son. Stanley deserted his family, leaving them almost destitute, and came to America with Mrs. Yeamens. They settled in Newark some months ago, at No. 496 Mulberry-st. On January 14, 1882, Stanley married Mrs. Yeamens. The woman's husband is still alive in England and thus a double bigamy was committed. A friend of Mrs. Stanley who knew her in London, and who is now living in Newark, informed her of her husband's second marriage and sent her funds to pay her way across the ocean. She arrived in Newark on Friday and made an affidavit to the foregoing facts before a justice of the peace, and Stanley was arrested and lodged in jail. He will have an examination to-day.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

A searching investigation resulted in the combination of Hood's catasparilia, which is peculiar to itself, avastly superior to other preparations, and is much more positive in its effects upon the blood and organs of the body. Time and constant use have proved its efficary beyond a question. The woodering results from its use prove more than was ever claimed for it. claimed for it.

"I had no appetite, no strength, and was feeling as mean as any one could, and be about my work. As soon as I began taking Hood's Sarsaparitia my food relished, and I feit myself growing stronger every day. I thoroughly believe in the value of Hood's Sarsaparitia.

the value of Rood's Sarsaparilla. It deserves to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It deserves the confidence of the public especially those who are troubled with humors."—J. Pitkin, Cheisea, Vt. "Internal humor caused a burning is my stomach, my food distressed me I couldn't sleep nights. Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved me of these troubles, and I sleep well now,"— Mrs. S. A. Edmunds, Warner N. H.
